Program Varied To Please All, Planned By Women's Club

Meeting last Friday at the home of Mrs. John P. Ross, 314 East Camino Real, the program committee and Mrs. Wood Glover, president, of Arcadia Women's Club mapped an interesting and varied program for the year ahead, which will start with a meeting October 6, first Wednesday of the month. Following the conference attended by committee members Mrs. B. E. Rubottom and Mrs. E. J. Frentress, Mrs. Ross reported:

Music, Books, Politics

"In the coming year's program we have aimed to please those who like music, those who like books and book reviews, those interested in analysis of the political situation, have planned meetings built about those features, with dramatic readings, plan-your-future programs and others included also."

Past presidents and new members of the Women's club will be feted at the first meeting of the Fall, and a musical program has been planned in their honor and for the entertainment of all, the program chairman said.

The club will be pleased to present at that time, Merwyn Dant, well known Los Angeles bass-baritone singer, frequently heard in concert, radio and oratorio programs. Dorothy Robinson, accompanist and piano soloist, also of Los Angeles, will share the spotlight with the singer.

One Monthly Meeting

Because of wartime difficulties in transportation and the general hustle and bustle of extra activities for all these days, twice monthly meeting dates will be dropped henceforth in favor of one meeting each month, it was decided. The one meeting of the club hereafter, starting with the October date, will be on the first Wednesday.

Change in time was scheduled also, and it was announced the meetings will start promptly at 11:30 a. m. Members will gather at the Women's clubhouse on S. First avenue, well ahead of that time in order that the program may be started on time.

The program will be presented at 1 p. m. and the business meeting will follow at 2 p. m. By 3 p. m., when the U. S. O. activities at the clubhouse begin daily, the Women's club will be adjourned.

Leaders Carry On

Leaders for the various sections of the club work chosen by each meeting, and in prospect are interesting occasions.

California history section, headed by Mrs. Rubottom, has already chosen for its feature a program on art, history and first families of early California.

The music group, headed by Mrs. Frentress, will present an anthology of the waltz. And along in November will come a timely program by the international relations group, led by Mrs. Ross.

Garden section members, directed by Mrs. Charles Van Ausdol, will add their bit to the year's calendar.

Dinner Dance Planned

"Escorts Night," outstanding social event of the club year, will be on the calendar, in the form of a dinner and dance, but detailed plans, date and location have yet to be worked out.

The evening party given once a year for the Boy Scouts, sponsored by the Women's club, is another event looked forward to, as usual, and plans for that occasion also will be announced later.

One new addition to the club activity for the coming year, Mrs. Ross said, is creation of a war services chairman to keep record of time spent by club members on all work in home front activities. Mrs. Mozelle Russell will serve in this capacity.

WHITE HOUSE ICE CREAM

Ice cream was served by Dolly Madison, first lady of the land in colonial days, as a climax to the colorful second inaugural ball in the White House.

Co-operate with the war effort. Sell articles that are becoming scarce!

GIRLS MEET TONIGHT FOR RED CROSS WORK

Miss Mary Reid will be hostess tonight to members of Job's Daughters Bethel 121 at her home, 215 Las Flores avenue, for their Red Cross meeting, in which they invite participation of all girls of high school age.

Meeting tonight, scheduled for 7:30, is one of the series being held by the local Bethel for the purpose of making their contribution in work for the Red Cross.

Gathering regularly at the homes of various members, the girls devote their time to fashioning scrap books, later sent to hospitalized veterans, and to the making of such items as baby blankets, for which also the Red Cross finds a ready and ever present demand.

REINDEER MILK RICHEST

Reindeer milk, which has 22 per cent butterfat, is the richest of 11 kinds of milk listed by the Department of Agriculture.

Greetings, fellow members:

We hope you have all had a pleasant and worthwhile summer and are ready to help us have a happy and successful new club year.

We are not able to have a membership tea this year because of war conditions but plan to have a gala homecoming day with an outstanding program for our first meeting on October 6th. The luncheon will start promptly at 11:30 A.M. and please call Edith Gruben, At.7-2543 or Ethel Rishworth, At.7-2674 for your luncheon reservations. We hope all our old and new members will be with us and bring any prospective members you may have. The yearbooks will be ready for you at that time.

In spite of the war, our club must go on as part of the social life of Arcadia. Because we are having only one meeting a month this year, each meeting has been carefully planned to bring you both knowledge and entertainment. Along with the war activities the social committee, upon request of some of the membership, is planning some bridge parties and other means of entertainment for our few leisure hours.

We intend to make our student nurse fund the project of the year and will need all of you to participate if it is to be successful. We are planning a rummage sale to raise money for the fund and hope all of you will start putting things aside for it now. In December Helen Lumpkin is going to put on a program for this same purpose and we hope all who are asked to help her will respond willingly.

Our May meeting will be in honor of all new members and all old members who have been present at every meeting this year. As there will be only eight meetings this year we hope all of you will be 100% members.

Mrs. Edna Dettra is our new membership chairman. Anyone having a friend who would like to join our club please call Mrs. Dettra, At.7-2751. Anyone who wishes to bring a service man's wife to club is urged to do so, as the board has voted to extend an invitation to any wife of a service man in Arcadia to be a guest of the club while they are here.

ATTENTION DELINQUENTS: To those who wish their name in the 1943-44 yearbook, as well as those whose dues for the past year are delinquent, please get in touch with the Treasurer, Mrs. Bessie Reid, At.7-2592, AT ONCE, as the year books are to be printed next week.

SOCIAL and

Our Hemisphere A Minority Continent, Says Speaker

Stressing the fact that science and educational cooperation will be needed by South America after the war as much as capital investment, Senor Francisco J. Duenas gave a concise and intensely interesting address before an audience of over 150 at the meeting of the Woman's Club last Wednesday noon. Senor Duenas opened his address by saying that the western hemisphere is a minority continent, compared to the population of the eastern, and that it is to our mutual interests to be closely associated. He spoke frankly of the relationship between the United States and the South American countries in the past, and of their hopes for a closer understanding of their problems in the future growing out of the war cooperation and our fine "Good Neighbor" program.

He reminded that audience that the present good relations were begun under the administration of ex-Fresident Hoover, that Sumner Welles was the father of the good neighbor policy so well put into effect by President Roosevelt, and that Hull's mutual trade agreements have done much to advance relationships.

The speaker, dividing his talk into three parts, gave the ethnological background of South America, its geographical problems, stressing the rich and untapped natural resources, and ended with a spirited explanation of international trade and relationships.

He said that despite the cordial friendship existing in South America for our country, and the similarity of our goals, there was some resentment over past treatment and for the present attitude in some places of "re-discovery" of South America, when for many years South America was forced to turn to Europe for cultural understanding.

Progress, he explained, had been retarded in South America because of the complete lack of a great middle class, and because of an educational system that needs much revision and support to provide this progressive class from the underprivileged and uneducated. Also because of the many difficulties presented by the varied terrain.

Senor Duenas said that South America feels that Pearl Harbor was an attack on their people as well as on us, for it was an attack on democracy. Many of the South American countries have governments similar to ours, and none are Nazi-minded, though some have fallen into the Nazi capture of the minds of those in authority.

The speaker, from Costa Rica, is an authority on his subject from wide study and travel, and was received with great attention and interest.

Also on the program was a splendid talk by Dr. Phyllis Edwards, reviewed elsewhere in this paper, on blood plasma.

Senor Duenas To Speak On Pan-Am. Harmony

The International Relations section of the Woman's Club will present Francisco J. Duenas, well-known writer and lecturer, who will speak on "Post-War Inter-America Trade Relations," Wednesday, Nov. 3.

Senor Duenas, a citizen of Ecuador and a graduate of the University of Southern California, knows both sides of inter-American relationships, a field in which he has been active for eight years, and he is working earnestly through business contacts and on lecture platforms toward a harmonious understanding for their betterment.

Dr. Phyllis Edwards, of the Los Angeles chapter of the American Red Cross will address the club on "Blood Plasma," following its course from donor to beneficiary.

As luncheon will be served promptly at 11:30 a. m., members are urged to come early. Reservations must be made in advance. This change of time is for the duration only.

Will members please bring all donations for the Nurse's Fund rummage sale to the club meeting? These things will be stored in the storage room until the sale.

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

By CLAIRE CHARLES

How I wish that every man and woman in Arcadia could have been at the Woman's Club last Wednesday when Dr. Phyllis Edwards from the Los Angeles Blood Bank gave us an intimate picture of blood plasma, how it is processed, how conveyed to the fighting fronts and how it is administered. It was one of the finest talks I have heard. Dr. Edwards in her easy, natural manner making us feel the importance of this great life saver in the treatment of the wounded soldiers.

It was Red Cross day at the club. "There has never been a finer program," was the opinion voiced by many and as I listened I kept saying to myself, "If only every one could hear Dr. Edwards, if men and women could only know what a precious privilege it is to give their blood"—and there is nothing I can do about it.

But, we do know that 7,000 pints per week is the Los Angeles quota. We have learned how carefully the blood is handled, how it is packed in dry ice, finally into special Church containers (so called because a man named Church built them), and how even the smart trains, the Lark, Owl and Daylight, Southern Pacific specials, are not permitted to leave until the Red Cross blood is on board speeding to Berkeley for the processing that will turn it into the life-giving miracle that is saving literally thousands of our men.

Fear, said Dr. Edwards, seems a great deterrent to many would-be donors. They do not realize that the utmost precaution is taken to safeguard them, that the same meticulous care is taken to keep the blood in perfect condition, and that there is not the slightest danger for a blood donor.

But we will talk about this again —I must get on with other activity of our Red Cross, even though I would like to fill the column with stories Dr. Edwards told us.

One delightful episode at the club was occasioned by Mrs. J. D. Sanley who is the club representative at surgical dressings; when she was introduced, she said, "May I say a few words? I want to tell you that Mrs. Genevieve Hasson, vice-chairman of surgical d essings, has given 3,000 hours to Red Cross, but she would never tell you about it."

We are all so proud of Mrs. Hasson, quiet, gentle, efficient, always on hand, giving of herself without stint, she is an example to all of us.

A salute, Lady Genevieve!

And Mrs. Stanley wouldn't say a word about herself—no indeedy, but she has in the neighborhood of 1,000 hours, or so I am informed.

A salute to you, too, Lady Stanley!

Woman's Club Comments

By FRANCES B. JONES

The second meeting of the 1943 season of the Arcadia Woman's Club was one of those things you often read about, but seldom see . . . an unqualified success. The clubrooms were crowded with members and guests, the decorations and fall flowers were beautiful, and the buzz of conservation between old and new friends was a very pleasant sound instead of being just a babble. It is a good, a very good thing for friends to meet once a month like this and talk over their wartime experiences. It isn't half so bad to have to do your own washing if you know that every one else is doing her own, too.

Red Cross In Evidence

The Red Cross was very much in evidence, quite naturally, as it was Red Cross Day at the club. Mrs. Bruce Sims, chairman of Red Cross; Mrs. Loyd Wickham, chairman of volunteer services, and Mrs. Edgar Reid of the staff assistants, looked charming in their uniforms, but there were many ladies present out of uniform.

Mrs. Hassan, who has worn the blue veil of surgical dressings supervisor for 3000 hours was a guest and looked very nice in a big black hat. Mrs. B. R. Charles was her hostess for the day. Mrs. Glenn Watson left her blue uniform of canteener at home and looked stunning in a blue dress and flowered hat. Some of the white garbed faithfuls of surgical dressings were there in their civilian garments, Mrs. Homer Brown, Mrs. J. D. Stanley, Mrs. Phillip Libby Mrs. Harvey Moss, Mrs. Florence Muller, Mrs. Clarence Crane, Mrs. Charles Stewart, and Mrs. Leroy Anderson.

Mrs. John Granville was there for lunch, and told me later that she was sorry to have missed the splendid speakers that the program chairman, Mrs. John Ross, presented, but she felt that she was needed more at surgical dressings that day so she left right after lunch and put in the afternoon making dressings which are so badly needed. There's a gallant old gal for you!

Members Missed

There were several faces missing at the club last Wednesday. Helen Lumpkin was not there to lead the singing of the national anthem because she is doing real war work in

Los Angeles. We all missed her. And where was our dear Timmie—Mrs. E. E. Timerhoff? Gladys Van Ausdol and her hister, Marguerite Sherz, were very conspicuous by their absence, as were Betty Craig and Margaret McMasters. And when is Ruth Evans coming back to town?

Game Of Service

Mrs. Wood Glover, the president, looked very dignified in a black dress, trimmed with crisp white, with a black and white hat to match. She played a little trick on all of us by asking us to number off by twos in preparation for a game, and when all 41 were numbered she asked that the number twos proceed to the kitchen and bring in their own plates and that of their number one neighbor.

After all had finished the number ones had to remove the plates and bring in the dessert. It was like a game after all, and every one was glad to help. I could not help thinking of the changes that have taken place in the Woman's Club since I first became a member four years ago.

Club Growth

At that time the club consisted of a tiny foyer, the auditorium, and the kitchen. All the meals were prepared by committees and served by them, and the advantage of that system was that deep and lasting friendships were formed over the stirring of the beans and the measuring of the coffee. The next year we became a little fancier and called in a cateress to do our cooking, but we still did the serving.

The following year we went back in the fall to a lovely new building, with a spacious room where you could move about and greet your friends and chat awhile before lunch, instead of being jammed together in the little foyer as tightly as the well known sardines. There was even the solarium to take care of the overflow. We had achieved a certain success and we enjoyed our club with its well served meals and smartly dressed waitresses. We all turned out in our best clothes and discussed unimportant details weightily, and thoroughly enjoyed the two club meetings a month.

But after Pearl Harbor things began to change almost imperceptibly. Our cateress found it difficult to provide service and sometimes even food, the waitresses disappeared one by one, and members found it too long a walk to the clubhouse with tires and gasoline rationed.

The USO then took over the building, night meetings were a thing of the past, and members began to wonder if we should even try to have meetings this year. But during the summer recess when days are long and there was time to think, while problems of every sort presented themselves daily to the women of Arcadia and were solved, the timus our club meetings was also problem of whether or not to consolved.

Of Course, we are going to continue to hold our meetings! What if we do have to move our own tables and clean up the building, cook our own meals and wait on the tables . . . we can do it and we can enjoy doing it We are among friends and we'll make more friends, and the motto of the club takes on a new and fuller meaning . . . "Let us build together."

We're not going to let a war stop us, we're going to keep on building more friendliness, more understanding, more philanthropies, and more good old American spirit.

Woman's Club Comments

By FRANCES B. JONES

The customary large crowd was in attendance at the Woman's Club last Wednesday. The tables were decorated with red berries and Christmas ornaments and looked very festive. There was a mass of the most beautiful red chrysanthemums on the piano which I firmly intended to take home with me, but someone else got there first!

Mrs. Roy H. Pike deviated from the usual brief procedure of introducing guests by giving her two friends, Mrs. Carter Beam and Mrs. H. H. Southard a very pretty speech of presentation. It made us all feel very friendly. In addition to several other guests, there were several new members including Mrs. Rodney Talcott and Mrs. A. V. Austin who were warmly welcomed.

It is good to see that wartime conditions are not frightening our Arcadia women out of their clubs, and that each meeting brings a larger crowd and more new members. After all, the Right of Assembly is one of those fundamental American rights that our men are fighting for these days.

Bright Hats and Suits

There were certain obvious effects of the war in evidence, however. I noticed that the usual bright colors in dresses and suits were missing, undoubtedly because the dyes are not available. There were two bright red hats on Mrs. B. E. Rubottom and Mrs. Thomas Connor which stood out gaily among the darker colors. Margaret Dysart had on a green hat which added to the gaiety, and Marguerite Sherz had pink feather flowers on a tiny black hat which also brightened up the gathering.

Mrs. Glover, the president, looked particularly handsome in a wine red velvet dress with a scalloped neck line, and sitting next to her the secretary, Mrs. Loren Casper blended in well with the color scheme in a dusty-pink dress and a dubonnet hat. Mrs. John Ross, the program chairman, looked stunning in a dark blue outfit.

Lunch on Lindells

The luncheon was particularly delicious, and we were told that it had been the inspiration of the Lindells, whose three and efficient ladies, and Mrs. Elizabeth Walker. I suppose that calling them "the Lindells" is confusing, but being a lone female among three baseball enthusiasts I think of Johnny Lindell's mother, Mrs. J. H. Lindell, his aunt, Mrs. Harry Russell, and his grandmother, Mrs. W. H. Evans, all as "The Lindells." Anyway, the luncheon they and Elizabeth Walker cooked up was something to go home and try on your own stove. I heard several members say that it was better than anything our cateress ever gave us.

program for the business meeting. In other years, the business meetings were not always so well attended, but now it seems that every member is willing to take on her own individual responsibility toward the club. The response to the philanthropic projects of the day was very gratifying. Instead of bringing white gifts or gifts to other members the club voted to give a Christmas present to the Hazel Hurst Foundation, and when the donations were counted there was almost fifty dollars!

That is almost enough to provide "eyes" . . . those beautiful dogs for two soldiers. That will be a wonderful Christmas gift. Then, Mrs. Philip Libby passed around a Christmas stocking such as the ones the Junior Red Cross is filling for the wounded soldiers in hospitals in our own area. She was delighted to find that fifteen dollars had been donated by the members of the Woman's Club.

Christmas Carols

The Christmas carols, led by Mrs M. M. Trew, seemed to usher in the season. During the year we forget how beautiful those old traditional songs are, but as this Christmas approaches they seem to have more meaning than ever before. Even though there is not "peace on earth" there can be "good will toward men." At any rate, as the club members said good bye for 1943, there were echoes of goodwill and good wishes all over the building.

Meeting At Woman's Club Features Excellent Talks

Christmas carols, led by Mrs. M. M. Trew, gay holiday decorations in charge of Mrs. E. W. Leeper, and a superb luncheon in charge of Mrs. Harry Russell, made Christmas seem very close at hand to members and guests of the Woman's Club at their regular meeting last Wednesday, Dec. 1. Substantial donations were made to the club's Christmas philanthropy, The Seeing Eye fund, and to the Junior Red Cross for filling stockings for convalescing servicemen.

Allegiance was pledged to a new flag, the gift of Mrs. C. F. Schermerhorn. Presidents of women's groups of the local churches present as honored guests were Mmes. Gruwell, Bussard and Williams.

Capt. P. S. Robinson, chaplain at Camp Santa Anita, was the luncheon speaker. He explained that donning a uniform does not fundamentally change a man. The attitude of the serviceman is that he has a job to do, and that he wants to do it, but without heroics, glamorizing or sugar coating. Captain Robinson said that the man in uniform expects the civilian population to look at their job in the same way—save that waste fat—save more gasoline—give that pint of blood.

Mary Wadden, who spoke on "The City of David," in the afternoon, drew a vivid comparison of old Palestine, rock-ribbed, desolate and primitive, with the new, which is amazing to behold with its 15,000 acres of citrus, miles and miles of grain, and its 1200 factories all turning out equipment for the Allies. This transformation has been made possible through financing of exiles, who have found refuge in Palestine since the Balfour Treaty.

SECTION CANCELS DECEMBER MEETING

The International Relations section of the Woman's club will not hold its regular meeting on the Monday following Christmas, Dec. 27, due to the crowded holiday schedule. The section will meet as usual on the fourth Monday in January.

Guest Speakers Anticipated By Woman's Club

Christmas at the Woman's club will be celebrated far in advance of the actual date, due to the decision to hold only one meeting a month for the duration.

Wednesday, Dec. 1, Mary Wadden, an authority on Middle East affairs, will speak on "The City of David" for the afternoon program.

Captain Robinson, chaplain from Camp Santa Anita, will be the luncheon speaker.

Again this year contributions will be made to the Seeing Eye Fund, one of the club's philanthropies.

Mrs. Lola Trew will lead the Christmas carol singing. Mrs. Ethel Frentress will play the piano.

Contributions for the rummage sale will continue to be received every Monday afternoon, or at the Wednesday club meeting days.

GARDEN SECTION MEETS FOR LUNCH

The garden section of the Woman's Club held their Christmas party, Dec. 8, at the home of Mrs. Edna Dettra, 2431 S. Second avenue. There were 24 members present.

Luncheon was served on the spacious terrace of the Dettra home, after which every one received a Christmas gift in a gay and colorful exchange.

Mrs. Ausdol, president, read a charming Christmas story, and Christmas stockings for the soldiers were sewn.

The next meeting will be held the second Wednesday in January, at the home of Mrs. C. F. Van Ausdal, 1015 Sunset avenue.

READINGS FEATURE SECTION MEETING

The California History and Landmark section met Wednesday, Dec. 15, at the clubhouse for a Christmas party.

During the business session plans were made for decorating the club house for the January meeting, the special day of the section's year.

There was an interesting discussion of California gems, highlighted by a reading by Mrs. Janet Crane. Miss Grace McCurdy read a story of early day California, and an original poem by Mrs. E. E. Timerhoff.

Gifts were exchanged, and refreshments were served by Mrs. Ganther, Mrs. Rubottom and Miss Florence Reynolds.

Woman's Club Comments

By FRANCES B. JONES

The usual large crowd was present at the Woman's Club last Wednesday for the regular meeting. The special guests for the day were the Arcadia Juniors, represented by Mrs. William Petersen, president of the Juniors, and Mrs. Robert Chambers, who is the wife of Bob Chambers, the very popular leader of the Woman's Club's own Troop 5 of the Boy Scouts. Mrs. Philip Libby, as advisor to the Juniors and chairman of Troop 5, was also honored.

Among the other guests I noticed Mrs. Richard W. Evans, who has been missed greatly by her fellow club members this past year, Mrs. Swartzkopf, Mrs. A. R. Cutter, Mrs. Monroe, who is treasurer of the Glendora Woman's Club, and Mrs. Breezes. The informal introduction of guests is always one of the happiest parts of the program.

The new members turn out every time and add a great deal to the friendly atmosphere which prevails. I saw Mrs. R. L. Werner, Mrs. Rex Harbord, and Mrs. S. M. Crosby sitting near Mrs. J. D. Stanley, both during luncheon and the program. Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Studebaker were there, and it was good to see the busy Mrs. Loyd Wickham taking time off from her numerous Red Cross duties to enjoy the meeting. The newest member of all, Mrs. Loyd Peterson, formerly of Minneapolis, was introduced and greeted by the members.

All of us were happy to see our dear "Timmie" sitting at the head table during luncheon. We have all missed Emilie Mann Timerhoff during her recent illness and it is splendid to see her up and about again. She thanked all the members for their thoughtfulness in sending her gifts and cards while she was ill, and she told us that she had received 112 Christmas cards, which sounds like a record. It is clear proof that in her case "out of sight is not out of mind."

The luncheon was delicious, as usual, and the two ladies who were responsible for getting the cooperative committee together were Mrs. Kaurin and Mrs. C. H. Williams.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Glover reminded us all of the rummage sale which is to take place the last of this month. The club will try to raise enough money from this sale to finish paying the tuition for the student nurse whom the club is sponsoring. All the members are urged to go through the house and garage and find everything which is no longer needed and bring all these things to the club house so they can be sorted ready for the sale. Anything will sell, so don't hesitate because something looks shabby. Your contributions will be taken in at the clubhouse on Monday afternoons, Wednesday nights, and Thursday mornings, but be sure to get them there before Jan. 17. That isn't very far off, so look around now, and get them realy so you can drop your package the next time you go by the clubhouse.

Mrs. Glover also reminded us of the Blood Bank which is going to make a stop in Arcadia on Feb. 24. Mrs. Wickham told us the requirements, which most of us already know; you must be over 21 and under 60, you must weigh over 110 pounds, and that is all. The Red Cross will take care of everything else. It is such a splendid thing to give a pint of your blood, to know that you are giving life back to some wounded man, that I am sure a great many club members will take advantage of this opportunity. Although everyone who has donated blood assures us there is nothing to be afraid of, and there is no pain, still a lot of us hesitate. The only way to prove these statements is to find out for yourselves by going to the Blood Bank and giving a pint. You will be proud and happy that you have done this small thing.

The district council meets on Jan. 21 at the Whittier High school. These meetings are always full of inspiration and good, practical suggestions that they are well attended. Mrs. Glover says that if any of the members wish to attend, she will be glad to arrange for transportation for them.

Guest Speaker Scheduled For Woman's Club

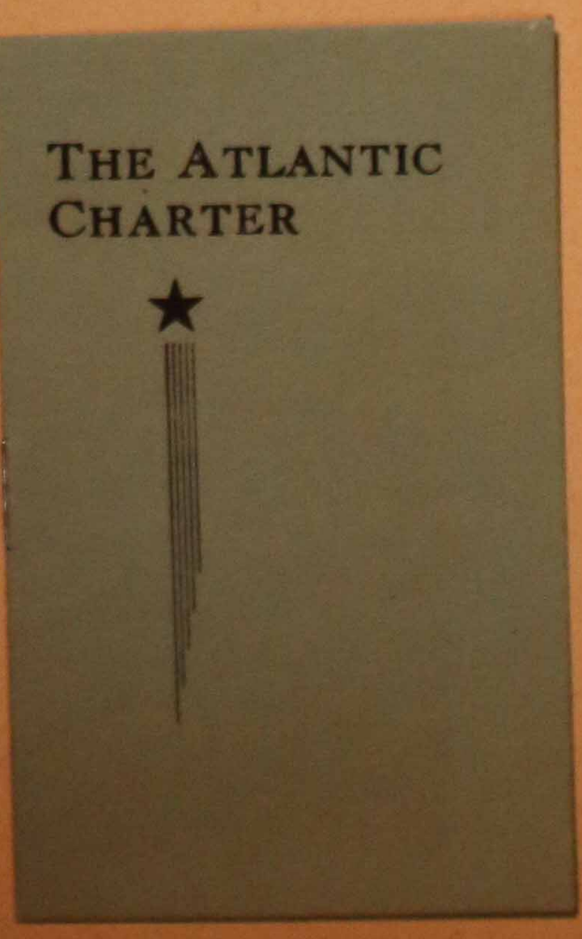
Wednesday, Jan. 5, the Woman's Club will hold the opening meeting of the New Year at the club house, with luncheon scheduled at 11:30 a. m. Mrs. Good Glover, president, will preside.

Since this will be California History and Landmark day at the club, Mrs. F. T. Broiles, district chairman from Los Angeles, will be a special guest and the luncheon speaker. Other guests will be the presidents of the Arcadia Junior Woman's Club, the Scout Mothers and the Brownies.

For their program at 10 o'clock the California History section will present Orpha Klinker, writer and lecturer. Miss Klinker, president of the "Women Painters of the West" for 1941 through 1943, is a member of many famous Art Clubs and of the Historical Society of California. She saw in her art the one means of preserving at once the color ,authenticity and picturesque charm of Old California. She will present a program which she styles "The Romance of Old Adobes, Landmarks and Pioneers of California," and will illustrate her talk with a showing of her original paintings.

Mrs. Ethel Rubottom, chairman for the History section, will preside during this part of the club program.

All members are urged to be present for this very special program. The business meeting will follow the luncheon and programs at 2 o'clock.



Women's Club Will Hear Noted Speakers

Two prominent speakers will be presented at the regular meeting of the Women's Club Feb. 2.

W. R. Humphries, well known for his interest in and work for the Red Cross and other charities and civic enterprises, will tell why there is "Nothing New Under the Sun" in a fast-moving commentary on politics, styles and customs over a long period.

Anne Shriber of Los Angeles will talk on "Vocations From the Hands." Miss Shriber was a photographer for many years and has been considered one of the foremost woman photographers in America. Through her work, she became intrigued by the hands she photographed and has indexed their various types and characteristics. She says, "I want to tell where you fit in life and I certainly am NOT interested in fortune-telling."

The regular luncheon is planned for 11:30. She program will begin at 1 p. m. followed by the business meeting at 2.

Noted Artist Is Presented At Woman's Club

One of the outstanding programs of the Woman's Club took place Wednesday, Jan. 5, with a large number of members and guests present. Among the guests were Mrs. F. T. Broiles, federation district chairman of California History and Landmarks, who gave an interesting talk on the ever-fascinating subject, "The Early Days of California History."

Other guests present were the presidents of the Junior Woman's Club, the Scout Mothers and the Brownies who were presented by Mrs. Phillip A. Libby. Mrs. Emily Timerhoff, founder of the California History section, and Mrs. A. R. Cutter were introduced by Mrs. Ethel Rubottom.

The program at 1 o'clock, was presented by the California History and Landmark section, their guest being the noted artist and lecturer, Miss Orpha Klinker. Her colorful paintings of the old adobes of Los Angeles, Pasadena, San Marino and San Gabriel were very beautiful and greatly enjoyed. The story and portraits of the old pioneers who lived and died in the old adobes were intensely interesting. The club feels indebted to Miss Klinker for this very fine program.

A business meeting followed at 2 o'clock, with Mrs. Wood Glover presiding.

Glowing Tribute Paid Memory Of Prominent Arcadia Woman

By E. M. TIMERHOFF

In the death, March 4, at 7 o'clock, of Miss Eva May Reynolds, of 717 Cortez drive, Arcadia, was written the last chapter of a wonderful life, well lived, a life, save for these recent years when she has laid ill, that was always forward. Born to Captain Reynolds and his wife, he a Civil War veteran, in 1867, at Catlin, Indiana, Eva early displayed fondness for study and music, literature and the Arts, and was given opportunities to develop them. Graduated from high school in Indianapolis, she went on to the Chicago Law School, graduating from it in 1896, third in a class of 178 of whom 172 were men. Following graduation she became associated with James Dwight Andrews, whose "Commentary on American Law" published 15 years later, was announced by the author to have been almost equally due to Miss Reynolds' clear brain and legal knowledge.

Miss Reynolds was elected to the presidency of the Lawyer's League of Chicago Women, and the Chicago Legal News at one time carried this of her "Of keen analytical mind, and a persistant student, she has a natural fondness for the study of the law." The News also published her portrait.

Transferring the interests to New York City, the Andrews-Reynolds partners continued forward move in law; Miss Reynolds gratifying her taste for music by attending over one hundred operas in the course of the years. Two trips abroad included one to Europe and one around the world.

Coming to Arcadia some years ago, Miss Reynolds affiliated with the Woman's Club of Arcadia, in which she was joined in turn by her sisters, Mrs. B. E. Rubottom and Miss Florence Reynolds, the latter having retired from her position teaching in the Indianapolis school for the blind.

Miss Eva was a valuable member of the Music section, also the California History section of the Woman's Club of which her sister Mrs. Rubottom is chairman. Loving and always lovable, friends to the end, and will be missed wherever they gather.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 p. m. on March 7, in the Glosser and Johns Chapel, with Rev. Clarke Horton the pastor of Arcadia Community Church, officiating.

In the sympathetic atmosphere of the Chapel, the clear sweet tones of her long-time friend, Mrs. Genevieve Wiley of Pasadena, blind vocalist and pianist rang true as she sang "Lead Kindly Light" and "Going Home."

Woman's Club Comments

By FRANCES B. JONES

In the crowded assembly room of the Woman's Club last Wednesday every one saw and admired the magnificent mantle decorations of massed dombeias, or bombeias, if you prefer, from the garden of Mrs. Agusta Barnard. It is difficult to believe that such flowers can be real, because their color and texture is so ethereal and their size so unbelievably large. It was good of Mrs. Barnard to share them with us. And the camellias ranged up and down the tables were like prize blooms at a flower show.

Never have I seen so many glorious flowers! They came from many different gardens and were brought to the club by the following champion gardeners: Mrs. Paul Gibbs, Mrs. Ray Kinnison, Mrs. E. F. Frentress, Mrs. Ray Young, Mrs. Eugene Harpole, Mrs. Peck, Mrs. Nellie White, Mrs. Edgar Balling, Mrs. Ernest Collins, Mrs. Victor Wagoner, Mrs. Clark Breese, and Mrs. Ward. The garden section should be very grateful for all these lovely flowers because they were sold after the meeting and the money turned over to that section so that more wool could be purchased to make more blankets for convalescent soldiers.

Blankets Donated

Gladys Van Ausdol brought several of the blankets that the garden section members stitch on while they are meeting and anyone, sick or well, would appreciate these gay little afghans. They have already made about 20 of these small robes and with the camellia donations have enough to purchase the material for 20 more.

There was an exceptionally large crowd at the meeting. The special guests of the day were representatives of the various women's organizations in Arcadia, and the chairmen of sections and special committees. I saw Mrs. Conway of the Rotary-Anns and Mrs. Mae Brown of the Legion Auxiliary, and Mrs. Clark Breese at the speakers' table. Mrs. Ray Young and Mrs. Frentress were also seated at that table, but as they were taking their turn at helping wait on table they did not get much chance to sit.

It is pleasant to meet the guests of members and very often these same guests become members. Mrs. Pike introduced her three guests who had just joined the club, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Beam and Mrs. Sothern. Mrs. Kennett was hostess to Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Bertel. and Mrs. Leeper presented Mrs. Clark Breese. Mrs. Young introduced Mrs. Allen, a visitor from Chatanooga, Tennessee. Mrs. H. B. Jones had as her guest Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Charles Stewart wanted us to meet Mrs. Leland Prentiss.

Members Return

It was a real joy to see Mrs. A. C. Brunton back with us after her long illness. Back also was Ruth Evans from her enforced sojourn in the mountains . . . we are all hoping that Ruthie will soon find a house in Arcadia so that we can see her oftener. Mrs. Eugene Perry was back to visit us also, and so was Pearl Smith.

The reports from the chairmen were very interesting and informative. In spite of gasoline rationing and tire shortages these ladies have managed to get in to Los Angeles to the various conferences so that they could bring back their worthwhile reports to the club. All of them were splendid, but Mrs. Harry Russell's plea as War Service chairman was impressive and beautiful. She asked that all who could would donate to the blood bank which is to be in Arcadia on Feb. 24 and showed graphically how every pint can count. All the lights in the dining room were extinguished and she lit a match. One tiny flame shone out in the darkness. Then, at Mrs. Russell's bidding every one lit a match and the whole room was brightly lighted with the combined flames held in a hundred or more hands.

Spring Ensembles

Lots of spring clothes were in evidence and everyone looked especially nice, perhaps because the day itself was so lovely. Lola Trew wore a printed jersey in brown and yellow, with green accents and she picked up the same green in her small sailor hat. Mrs. Ray Dickenson looked very smart in a blue tailored suit, with a lacy ruffled blouse and a small blue hat with light blue feather wings.

May Glover had on a black silk frock dotted with gold flowers and an attractive bit of fluff on her head which must surely have been one of these "half-hats" we read about nowadays. Mrs. Talcott was wearing a good looking gray and fuchsia printed silk dress with a fuchsia hat. The twins were in black, both very chic. I have to look twice to be sure which is Alice Moss and which is Grace Stanley, but last Wednesday I spotted right away that Alice's black dress sported a bright red pin and Grace's black dress had a tiny white pin stripe. Both of them were wearing over the face hats, which made it harder to tell them apart.

Mozelle Russell had a dusty pink two-piece dress with a small brown hat, and Ruth Wagoner was dressed in a sleek black silk with gold clip buttons down the side of the front. Her hat was a large

Woman's Club Initiates Annual Camellia Festival on Feb. 2

So beautiful were the luncheon tables of the Woman's Club last Wednesday, laden with low bowls, floating 200 waxy camelia blooms complimented by tall white tapers, the members decided to perpetuate the idea, making the inspiration of Mrs. Ray Kinnison and Mrs. Ray Young, an annual February Camellia Festival. Chairmen of the club divisions were the featured speakers during the luncheon. Mrs. Ray Dickinson, legislation, introduced Mrs. Harry Russell, who reported on the McMillen Bill which regulates the teaching of religion in grade schools.

She said that 75 per cent of the children in the southern part of California receive no religious training either in the home or in the church, and added that California is the 39th state to adopt this plan, Monrovia the first city in the state.

Mrs. E. J. Frentress, music division, reported that Mayor Bowron is the first mayor of Los Angeles to publicly support the Hollywood Bowl, and that Mrs. Leland Atherton Irish, prominent Los Angeles club woman and music supporter, feels Southern California is badly in need of a Symphony Association.

Why We Federate

Mrs. Ray Young, Federation, spoke on "Why We Federate", saying, "Not much can be accomplished by one small group, but a body of two million women can and have furthered much good legislation."

A report was made of the rummage sale in Pasadena on Jan. 24 and 25 when the quota was made for the Nurse's Fund.

Other reports were given by Mmes: George Jones, reporter; Kinnison, motion pictures; Van Ansdon, garden; Leeper, Americanism; and Russell, war service. Mrs. Russell demonstrated praphically how much each pint of blood means by showing how the light yielded by matches held in the hand of each member of the audience was composed fundamentally of the feeble but important units of light held by each person.

Afternoon Speaker

The afternoon speaker, Ann Shieber, well known woman photographer who has made the study of hands and their photography her specialty, had no difficulty holding the attention of the audience who wanted to know what they could or should do and whether they could guide the vocational paths of their children by the structure of their hands. "Vocations Through Hands," was Miss Shieber's subject.

"Hands do have a definite relation to success." Half of the unhappiness in life comes from forcing square pegs into round holes. Hands are the most interesting things in the world. They are an index to a man's character, his weaknesses, and his strength." Miss Schrieber said that hands show a man's particular ability, and point to his successful path in life.

When the afternoon's program was finished the 200 camellia blooms were sold to the members and the funds received were turned over to the garden division of the club to buy wool for their sewing.

An invitation has also been extended to the many friends of the club.

A War Bond will be given away and all those who attend will be afforded an opportunity to contribute 25-cent war stamps towa.d the gift bond.

Woman's Club Hears Lecture On Pacific Outlook by Dr. Chen

By BARBARA STEVENS

An optimistic, but careful outlook in the Pacific was evidenced by Theodore Hsi-En Chen, Ph.D., who summed up an address to members and friends of the Woman's Club last Wednesday evening by saying, "We are going to get to Tokyo, but the road to Tokyo is not altogether smooth."

Dr. Chen, head of the Department of Asiatic Studies at the University of Southern California, appears in "Who's Who in China," is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, president of the China Society in Los Angeles, and former Dean of Education, Fukien Christian University, Foochow, China, was introduced by Mrs. John P. Ross, as the speaker for the annual "Escorts Night." He took the place of Chet Huntley, CBS commentator, who was taken critically ill.

"A background for thinking out the problems in the Pacific is important for us to get the perspective needed for unified strategy," said Dr. Chen. He noted three possible approaches to the question of conquering Japan: take India, open Burma, and join China; concentrate strength with MacArthur's forces, go up from the south and take the strategic islands; or, as is being done now, concentrate with Nimitz in the Central Pacific and get near the central bases.

Pacific Forces

"Until Germany is beaten we can't concentrate large forces in the Pacific . . . We hope that the European victory won't take long but in the meantime we should think of the Pacific problem," warned Dr. Chen.

He was against the use of the term "Far East," preferring "Pacific" or "Asia." "Far East," he said, "is poor psychology. It puts the danger too far off. We should consider the globe as one and not separate theaters." China and Japan are not far, they are closer than Europe, he pointed out. Also they are not East, they are West. It would be more logical to talk of the Near West than the Far East.

Far East is a European term of European derivation and Americans are still thinking in terms of Europe. It is good sense to see that what happens in the Pacific rests mainly on the nations bordering on it and that the United States is the greatest of these nations.

Optimistic Outlook

"I am, on the whole, very optimistic as to the outlook, though not more optimistic than since the war began," admitted the doctor. The United Nations now realize they should do away entirely with Japan. Once they didn't but talked of negotiating peace. Today they are in united agreement on an unconditional surrender policy. China continually resists despite the length of the war and the strength of her enemy. Nimitz has been successful, and the picture is encouraging and bright.

"I have no doubt the United Nations will win with the productive power of the United States on their side. I have no doubt Japan will be defeated. However, I want to caution against over-optimism—not against final results, but against the length of time realizing

Escort Night Proves Popular

Mrs. Wood Glover, president of the Woman's Club, opened the program of the annual Escort Night at the Holly Avenue auditorium Wednesday evening, by welcoming members and friends of the club who had assembled to hear Dr. Theodore Hsi-En Chen, of U.S.C., speak on the "Outlook in the Pacific."

Mrs. Glover spoke of the club charter which was formed 21 years ago in Arcadia when members met in the room over the city hall, and briefly outlined the aims and objectives of the Woman's Club today. Mr. Glover, of the Board of Education, responded with thanks on behalf of the escorts.

Mrs. John P. Ross, in charge of the very intertaining program, introduced the speakers during the evening.

Following Dr. Chen's lecture, two bonds were given away to lucky guests in the audience. Mrs. Wedward W. Heffner of 1113 Palm avenue, San Gabriel, won a $25 bond, and Mrs. John Y. Quayle, 2010 Bella Vista, won a partially completed book of 25 cent stamps.

Mrs. Charles Lumpkin led community singing.

He called 1942 a year of consolidation. The Japanese, whose policy has been to strike fast before the enemy catches on, needed time to consolidate their gains. They exchanged cotton for wheat in North China and moved industries from Japan to North China where resources were rich.

In Manchuria they added soy beans, industrial centers, a billion tons of coal deposits, 5½ million tons of petroleum to their national wealth. In North China they acquired iron, coal and cotton, in the Philippines they gained copper, manganese, iron, in Malay, rubber and tin, in the East Indies, oil, coal, gold, copper, quinine, rice and precious lumber for needed ships to carry supplies.

By 1943, the Japanese economic program had enabled them to use heretofore unavailable resources. Japanese financial and naval experts suggested Shanghai be the financial center, Hong Kong, with its river and harbor, the distribution center, of Asia.

Jap Fleet

In answer to a much-asked question . . . where has the Jap fleet been? Dr. Chen answers, "They have been busy escorting ships with supplies and material, throughout the Asiatic concentration. Chinese guerilla forces have been actively cutting off railroads, but rivers have still afforded excellent transportation.

So the Japanese have knit together all of the East into a strong economic empire, which they hope will carry them when the military power of the Rising Sun sets following the fall of Germany.

Thailand-Burmese railroad again evidences the cementing together of all sections to connect conquered manpower for Japanese strength. The Sons of Heaven are being saved for the showdown. Behind the front the Nipponese are looking ahead . . . the East is producing for Tojo. "We must not let Japan do all this too easily," said Dr. Chen.

China Important

It is important China be used in the drive against Japan, he said, for air fields on the China coast are in valuable strategic positions. China has held out 6½ years merely on the national consciousness of the common people, not the strength of the army, navy, or air force.

If China can retake Burma and open the Burma Road then she will have relief. The United Nations will have no resources to open the Burma drive until the English offensive against Germany is successful when we can go into Burma, open the road, and—on to Singapore.

History Section Meets to Study Gems of State

Members of the California History Section of the Arcadia Woman's Club gathered at the home of Miss Grace McCurdy Feb. 23, at 1:30 p. m. Mrs. B. Rubottom presided and the club continued its study of "California Gems" . . . the year's theme.

During a business session invitations were given and accepted for March and April hostesses resulting in Mrs. C. G. Messenger of 64 W. Lemon asking members to her home in March and Mrs. J. E. Vanderbur, 44 Floral avenue being named April hostess. At the April session Mrs. Bertha Fuller, past state chairman of the federation will be the speaker.

A brief backward look was given the ten years since the section was added to the Woman's Club aided by several charter members who were present.

Mrs. John Renshaw led the group on "an armchair tour of the 'Gem Country' of the southern part of the state" where tourmalines, kunzite, topaz, beyrl, rubelite, and other valuables are to be found in abundance. This is also the country of great mountains as Palomar, where the giant telescope, Pala Mountain is located.

A stop was made at the Pala Mission, an "Assistencia" whose campanile, bell tower, was modeled after the finest one in Juarez, Mexico. Pala Mission was erected in October 1815, then enlarged in 1818 to accommodate the 1000 Indians who had been converted.

Miss McCurdy, assisted by Mrs. Crellin, served during the social hour at a table bearing dainty china and silver, centered by a bouquet of patriotic flowers born aloft in a carreta to which a bullock was attached, he being squired by a brown bear. Delicious refreshments included some cream puffs par excellence made by the hostess herself and tiny hatchets recalled the George Washington Birthday season.

Conversation during the social hour was centered on the beautifully artistic paintings, wall-hung in the rooms and all done by Miss McCurdy from memories. Noble old Redwoods from the north, Sierra Madre's trees, deep canyons, and especially appealing was a study of the Belle of Portugal rose, which grows beautifully in the McCurdy back lawn.

Present beside the hostesses were Mmes. B. E. Rubottom, C. Ganther, John Ross, M. Millspaugh, J. Vanderbur, M. M. Trew, D. Gamroth, J. Rogers, C. G. Messenger, J. Renshaw, G. H. Thomas, E. Timerhoff, Eva Falconer, and F. Hoagland.

Garden Section Is Hostess For Woman's Club

In between winter-like showers when the sun does come out there is increasing evidence of California springtime in the air, and in keeping with the first spring blossoms and greenery, the Garden Section assumed responsibility for the Women's Club meeting last week.

Mrs. Paul Pulliam entertained everyone by presiding over gorgeous blooms brought to help her illustrate her talk on flower arrangements. She worked especially with the lovely spring daffodils, jonquils, and stock that can easily be cultivated and picked for indoor displays.

Unusual was her choice of greenery and her unique use of wild grasses with the neutral and green grace of wild oats and carrot fern. She stressed distinctive arrangements and warned against having one-sided or flat-backed bouquets. Her work showed charm, freshness and originality and was much admired by club members.

Mrs. Frank Falconer and Mrs. Robert Leigh were the lucky recipients of two beautiful camellia plants. Thirty-one dollars received for the plants went toward the Garden Section fund for woolen pieces to be used in their Red Cross blankets.

Mrs. C. F. Ganther was in charge of the delicious luncheon and was aided by a talented staff of coworkers.

Mrs. Wood Glover, president of the Club opened the meeting and then turned it over to Mrs Charles F. Van Ausdol, chairman of the Garden Section, who introduced her officers, Mrs. Phillip A. Libby, co-chairman, Mrs. Clarence Crane, treasurer, Mrs. Hogan Willeford, secretary, and Mrs. William Brandt, program chairman.

SECTION OF WOMAN'S CLUB TO MEET 27TH

The International Relations Section of the Women's Club will meet in the foyer of the clubhouse on Monday, March 27, at 11:00 a. m. The study of current events will be continued.

District Officer Luncheon Guest Of Woman's Club

Arcadia Woman's Club members had an outstanding meeting April 5 when Mrs. C. H. Oneal, past president of the district was present as luncheon speaker. Presidents of several nearby clubs were invited as special guests including Mrs. Cornelius of the San Gabriel Club, Mrs. Shierman, of the Pio Pico Club and Mrs. Wolford of the El Monte Woman's Club.

The Music Section sponsored the program for the day and presented the Mission Ensemble composed of Lucile White, cellist and arranger, Florence Anderson, violinist, Virginia Boardman, pianist, and Helen Lumpkin, soloist. The selections offered by the ensemble were beautifully done and consisted of numbers both instrumental and vocal from the Latin-American, French, English, Russian, Norwegian, and American composers.

A record attendance of members enjoyed the luncheon which had been prepared by hostesses, Mrs. Ella Deven, Mrs. Pauline Crader, and their committee in charge.

It was announced that the District Convention will be held at the Biltmore on the 17th and 18th of May. Mrs. Wood Glover, president of the Arcadia Club, Mrs. Loren L. Casper, Mrs. Earl H. Detra, Mrs. Ernest W. Leeper will serve as delegates.

Club Schedules Reciprocity Day

Home of Tomorrow Envisaged By Speaker for Club Women

Mrs. Harry W. Russell presided over last Wednesday's meeting of the Woman's Club of Arcadia, when members and guests of the group were given a glimpse into the home of tomorrow by their luncheon speaker, Mrs. Claire Charles.

The Arcadia speaker, active in civic affairs, pictured the streamlined kitchen, new air-conditioning, solar heating plastic furniture, automobiles with fenders replaceable by wings, and a startling new feature, a "quiet room" where one can commune with himself and God.

Advance releases on all these developments of the future will enable women to plan for inevitable changes, in the education of their children and in their own re-education. "The hand that rocks the cradle will rock the world," Mrs. Charles said, "but," she added, "it hasn't yet."

"If we want civilization to reach its heights, if we want to free the world from menaces such as that which precipitated the present holocaust women will have to take themselves in hand, study economics and political science and get into public life. As you think, you act. You can win, or you can lose," Mrs. Charles concluded.

Lynne Shannon, young American actress, gave dramatic presentations in costume of "Women on Parade," during the afternoon's program. She displayed consummate skill in passing from heavy drama to stark tragedy, and thence to comedy.

Mrs. Russell, in her capacity as presiding officer in the absence of the club president, Mrs. Wood Glover, whose illness prevented her attendance, honored charter members, 100 per cent members and new members. An honored guest of the club was its first president, Mrs. Alice Billings.

Officers elected for the ensuing year include Mrs. Harry W. Russell, president; Mrs. John P. Ross, first vice president; Mrs. Chas. Ganther, second vice president; Mrs. Loren Casper, recording secretary; Mrs. Earl H. Dettra, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ray A. Young, federation secretary; Mrs. E. J. Frentress, program chairman; Mrs. Ernest W. Leeper, parliamentarian and Mrs. George Leitz, trustee.

As a part of the business transacted the club voted to reduce its mortgage by six hundred dollars. Tribute was paid those members of the group who worked on kitchen committees this year. It was pointed out that these women gained something through their work together, contributed to the social hour, so necessary in these busy times and made the venture profitable as well, said the club's press chairman, Mrs. John P. Ross.

Dettra, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Loren Casper, second term as recording secretary; Mrs. Ray Young, federation secretary; Mrs. E. J. List War Services

Three club members are now members of the WAC while 12 have been blood donors and two are full-time workers in defense industries. Considering financial services of the group a conservative estimate placed $20,000 in War Bonds. The club itself purchased two $100 War Bonds and contributed $63 to the Hazel Hurst Foundation, in addition to completing its obligation to the Student Nurses' Scholarship.

The club building itself is shared with the U.S.O. and Mrs. Glover has served as chairman of Senior hostesses during this period.

This latter organization is one of several youth groups sponsored by the club, to which it, as a unit and its members have made many contributions.

In summing up the year's activities, Mrs. Ross said that much of the war work of this representative Arcadia women's group will continue throughout the summer season, and leaders feel assured that although much remains to be accomplished in these days of greatest effort, work of much worth has been accomplished during the current club year.
